For Dominic Cortese's introduction of Anne Wexler

ANNE WEXLER is the Assistant to the President of the United States. She is the highest ranking woman to serve on the White House Staff. Ms. Wexler is responsible for developing and administering efforts to support and carry out Presidential priorities including the involvement of interested groups and individuals in the making and implementation of policy. Prior to her appointment, Anne Wexler had served as Deputy Under Secretary of Commerce since January 1977. At the Commerce Department she was responsible for the coordination of the Department's programs and field operations, and also acted as Special Assistant to the Secretary for Regional Economic Coordination and as Chairperson of the President's Task Force on Women Business Owners.

Ms. Wexler has been active in the Democratic Party for over twenty years. During the 1976 Presidential Campaign, Ms. Wexler served as a member of the Carter/Mondale Campaign's National Steering Committee and on the Democratic National Campaign Committee. She also served as floor leader for Jimmy Carter at the Democratic National Convention.
